Summary

After diving deep into the mass media industry, I'm currently in a transition towards psychology with a passion for medical care inherited from my parents.

During the past four years I spent in two noted colleges in China and the U.S., my major crossed from Communication to Magazine Journalism (Design), with minor in Psychology. I've accumulated practical skills which range from photography, design to reporting and outside broadcasting.

A combination of media production and mental health care is where my interest locates now. My next step will be psychology graduate schools.
